Exciting times for Wairarapa Moana Incorporation who has joined forces with Tuaropaki Trust to establish Miraka Limited and create an integrated value chain operation.

Groundwork to build the Miraka milk-processing plant at Mokai, 30 kilometres north-west of Taupo, is underway and will be operational for the new season in August 2011. On establishment the plant will process approximately 210 million litres of milk and produce 32,000 tonnes of whole milk powder per annum. At its peak the plant will be processing 1.1 million litres of milk each day.

“Taking control over the processing of our milk and selling our products directly in to niche markets is a key strategic goal,” said Kingi Smiler, chair of Wairarapa Moana Incorporation. “This will ensure we achieve long-term sustainable returns for shareholders. The project has been outlined to the shareholders at the previous two AGMs and at this year’s AGM to be held at Mokai commencing Friday 29 October, shareholders will see first-hand the site where the plant is being built.”

Waitangi Tribunal Report Handover Ceremony

On 26th June at Te Ore Ore Marae, the Waitangi Tribunal handed over its long-awaited report on the Crown's Treaty breaches in the Wairarapa and Tararua region.

The first claims for the region were registered as early as December 1988, with the Wairarapa Moana/Pou-a-Kani claimants lodging its claim on behalf of shareholders in August 1989.

Hearings did not start until March 2004 and although they were concluded in March 2005, the Waitangi Tribunal, despite its best endeavours, was not able to furnish a final report until 2010 (some 4 years late!). Nevertheless, the content of the report is well worth the wait. The report finds all of the key claims issues raised by the region are well founded and goes on to outline a number of clear and specific findings and recommendations. It provides us with a very strong platform to begin our negotiations with the Crown. It is a large report, so here is a very brief outline of the content of the report.

First and foremost, in relation to the Wairarapa Lakes, the Tribunal found that our property rights were "overridden, disregarded, and dishonoured" by the Crown during the events that led to the transfer of ownership of the lakes to the Crown. And while the Crown acknowledged during the hearings that its failures were 'regrettable', the Tribunal found that the Crown's culpability was altogether more serious and breached the principles of the Treaty – specifically its duties of active protection, and to act with the utmost good faith. As a result, the Tribunal made the following recommendations:

- The return of the bed of Wairarapa Moana including Lake Wairarapa, Lake Onoke and such of their surrounds that are not in private ownership;
- The gift of any land in Crown ownership adjacent to either of the two lakes as a reserve/s;
- Payment of compensation to Wairarapa Moana Incorporation for the cost of the Mangakino township leases; and
- A re-assessment of the compensation paid to owners for the loss of land taken by the Crown to build the Maraetai dams.

It is important to note that the Wairarapa-Tararua area was one of the first areas in New Zealand to have suffered land confiscation (raupatu) at the hands of the Crown. The Tribunal found the confiscation was "disproportionate to the offences that had been committed" and constituted a breach of the Treaty.

The report itself is three volumes and runs to almost 1200 pages. It is probably the most comprehensive historical record of the region's early colonial experiences. It captures all of the traditional and historical experiences of our people and their relationship with the land (and lakes), the early settlers, and the Crown and its agents.

The other matters that the Tribunal found were most striking and historically distinctive included (1) the attempts by early Wairarapa Māori to lease (and not sell) land to new settlers; (2) the desire of Wairarapa Māori to be an integral part of the lives and activities of the settlers, and to share a common destiny; (3) the Kotahitanga parliament housed at Papawai; (4) the destruction of the 70-Mile bush; and (5) the speed of the changes inflicted upon the region (e.g. the loss of 1.5 million acres of land between 1853 and 1854).

The Crown, for its part, conceded that undue pressure was placed on some owners of blocks to complete Crown purchases, that it failed adequately to delineate and protect reserves agreed upon in land purchases, that it did not pay the 5% koha to owners of some blocks (despite contractual obligations), and also that it unreasonably delayed issuing Crown grants to Māori where these were promised.

The Tribunal agreed with the Crown's concession "that it failed actively to protect the lands of Wairarapa Māori to the extent that today Wairarapa and Tāmaki-nui-ā-Rua Māori are virtually landless, and this was a breach of the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles". It noted also that the promises made by the Crown to provide education and health services were significant in persuading Wairarapa Māori to let the Crown purchase their land. The Crown failed to establish these services. Thus, the Crown gained Māori consent to the sale of their land under false pretences. These actions, the Tribunal said, constituted a breach of contract, and a breach of articles 2 and 3 of the Treaty.

Throughout the Report, it is clear that the Tribunal found that many of the actions of the Crown undermined our capacity to engage with settlement on equal terms and on a self-sustaining basis. In the end, the land left to Wairarapa Māori by the Crown effectively precluded us from engaging with the settler economy, except as wage labourers and subsistence farmers. It goes a long way to explaining why we are at such a poor state today!

Kia ora mai tatau katoa

Kāti ake rā e rau rangatira mā.

We will be discussing with you the Mandating Process for Treaty claims as set out in detail in the Notices of Meeting booklet for discussion at Pre-AGM meetings and the AGM in Mangakino.

>>CONTINUED ...

Other participants in the venture include Waipapa 9 Trust, Hauhangaroa Partnership, Tauhara Moana Trust, Huiarau Farms, the Māori Trustee, Te Awahohonu Forest Trust Limited and Global Dairy Network. Miraka Limited will be 80% Māori owned.

In the first year of operations the plant will produce whole milk powder with the capacity for further development into anhydrous milk fat manufacture, which will be customised for niche markets.

Environmental sustainable practices are a key focus for Miraka. The plant will use renewable energy from the Tuaropaki geothermal power station; the Tuaropaki worm farm will process DAF sludge and wastewater will be processed and irrigated back onto farmland. Other possible uses for the water being explored, as well, are to reticulate the water back to the hydroponic glasshouses, which Tuaropaki have on the site.

Mokai is centrally located with good access to quality milk supply. It is expected that milk for the factory will be sourced within a 30 km radius of the plant.

The search for a Chief Executive to run the factory is happening now and an appointment is expected by October.

SOUTH AFRICANS ARE STRUGGLING TO PLAY GOOD RUGBY BUT THEY CAN MILK COWS

Thankfully, the Wairarapa Moana farming season is looking more prepared and planned than my native rugby team in the 2010 season. Maybe sport is like farming where the unexpected can happen but who would have guessed South Africa would go home with no points in the recent Tri Nations matches against the All Blacks in New Zealand.

My name is Japie Nortje and I arrived in New Zealand in 2005 along with other members of my family. I had two years dairy farming in the district until 2007 when I applied for a manager's position with Wairarapa Moana on Farm 9 with 840 cows.

During that first season I watched as the neighbouring farm was converted from Sheep and Beef to Dairy with new sheds, houses and fencing resulting in a very nice farm for the future. At the end of that season an opportunity came about where I was given the chance to manage both the existing Farm 9 and the new Farm 14. For management purposes we often now refer to it as Farm 23 or I call it "Springbok Lane".

We are just starting our 3rd season with this Farm 23 setup. We now manage over 650 hectares of dairy land, two sheds, nine staff members and over 1,700 cows. Last year which was a drought we managed to produce over 600,000 milk solids and this year the target is closer to 700,000 milk solids. Therefore, as I am often told by management we are effectively responsible for over 20% of Wairarapa production on the Dairy Units.

The five team players on Farm 9, led by captain Hekkie du Plessis, call the 50-aside shed their home ground. The four players of Team 14, with myself as captain, have the privilege of calling a brand new 54-bale rotary shed with meal feeders home. Having the meal feeders has proven to be a major contributing factor in the 80th minute of the season as it is ensuring sustainability of top production from cows during the challenging climatic conditions and also enabled us to winter cows for the last two seasons.

Coaches Andy MacLeod and Chris Berry are expecting to see the teams bring their A game in the upcoming seasonal matches. With top-notch facilities the team feels it is well equipped, well trained and well prepared for the next challenges it faces.

We would like to extend our gratitude to our loyal fans the trustees and board of WMI and are looking forward to welcoming you onto the field at the AGM, hosted on your home soil this year!

Improvement Continues on the Papawai Mangarara Stream

Despite a particularly wet start to the month, July saw a flurry of activity in and around the Papawai Marae and in particular the restoration of the Papawai Stream.

The team who assisted in the planting on the Papawai Stream for Matariki and Arbor Day 2010.

Early in the month, around sixty children and parents from Hadlow School in Masterton visited Papawai and spent the morning planting along the banks of the stream.

Assisted by senior students from Kuranui College, staff from JR's Orchards, Bryan Tucker, Don Bell and his team from GWRC, and members of the Papawai Stream Care Group, the children dug holes and planted almost 800 trees, shrubs and flaxes along the stream in an area cleared of cracked willow last year. Following the planting, all were welcomed on to Papawai Marae where they were treated to a brief history of Papawai and the stream restoration project before enjoying lunch.

Later in the month we received great news with World Wildlife Fund (WWF) New Zealand in association with the Tindall Foundation announcing a grant of $10,000 to the Papawai Mangarara Stream Care Group for further clearing and planting along the stream.

“The Papawai Community Trust is extremely proud to have the recognition and support of such a renowned conservation organisation and the fact that WWF has seen fit to support the project is very pleasing.”

WMI part of successful $1 billion plus Collaboration of Māori Entities – Awhina Group

Awhina Group is a collaboration of a number of central North Island Trusts and Incorporations. It includes the Taupo-based Waipapa 9 Trust who won the prestigious 2010 Ahuwhenua Trophy – Bank of New Zealand Māori Excellence in Farming competition for its' outstanding dairying operation.

Wairarapa Moana Incorporation is also an active member in Awhina.

Awhina Chair, Sam Andrews, says “We are all tied together as kaitiaki for taonga tuku iho and with our focus on future generations, Awhina has become a real powerhouse and leading example of collaboration not only in this region but nationally”.

Waipapa 9 Trust Chairman and Awhina participant, Dawson Haa, said at the Ahuwhenua Trophy awards evening earlier in the year that their success is an example of the increasing sophistication and strength of the Māori farming sector.

WMI Director and Awhina participant, Te Horipo Karaitiana, says “Integrated value chain and increasing productivity is essential to increasing the well-being of New Zealand. The Māori economy is critical to this. Awhina is an example of collaboration of scale that focused on looking beyond the farm gate and striving for best practice in our operations”.

Andy MacLeod, WMI General Manager, says that last year the collective made over 7,500 tonnes of supplement purchases with the focus on value and securing a consistent supply chain. The collective will continue to build relationships as a group to maximise economies of scale while also improving suppliers ability to understand the strategy and ensure they can meet our requirements. Awhina meetings are also an opportunity for management teams to share knowledge about strategic opportunities and business risks and this adds value to each Trust involved.

Participating Trusts and Incorporations include:

- Hauhangaroa Partnership
- Waipapa Trust
- Te Awahohonu Forest Trust (Tarawera Station)
- Tuaropaki Trust
- Wairarapa Moana Incorporation
- Te Paiaka Lands Trust
- Tauhara Moana Trust
- Tiroa E & Te Hape B Trusts

Treaty of Waitangi Claim

The Waitangi Tribunal handover of the Wairarapa ki Tararua Report on June 26th provided findings and strong recommendations towards the injustices faced by our tipuna.

Hurunui-o-rangi whānau can be proud and satisfied that the claim they registered with the Tribunal was heard and accepted and furthermore, validated the prejudices that our tipuna suffered as a result of the Public Works Act. Our tipuna that protested strongly against the taking of their lands, their voices will always be heard. The Tribunal recommendations demonstrate that the efforts of our tipuna were recognised and acknowledged.

Our Treaty claims representatives Frances Reiri-Smith and Henare Manaena continue to meet with the wider claims community to progress the Mandating Strategy for presentation back to our claimants at a later stage.

Papawai-Kaikōkirikiri Trusts Scholarship Hui

The 2010 secondary school scholarship hui was held at Papawai Marae, on Saturday 10th April. The day was sunny and warm – perfect for the task in-store for the 28 plus scholarship recipients and their 42 whānau.

The proceedings got underway with a welcome from Chairman Paora Ammunson after which whānau were introduced to trustees and the work undertaken on behalf of the Trust. Certificates recognising the scholarship recipients were then presented.

Following this, Peter Rewi, Chairman of the Papawai Stream Care Group was introduced and gave the background on the restoration of the Papawai Stream and then everyone went to view the stream at the back of the Marae.

All excited and with tools in hand, the walk over to Tilsons Creek on the Papawai-Kaikōkirikiri Trust Farm began. Once everyone had arrived, Warren Field and Don Bell, from Greater Wellington Regional Council, ensured everyone was aware of the 'do's and don'ts' of planting and the safe use of equipment ... then the real work began.

The ground was fairly hard with an abundance of rocks but in the limited time available a total of 380 plants were planted alongside Tilsons Creek. When it was time to return to Papawai Marae for lunch there were still 90 plants that had not found a home on the day. It was decided that a small group would come back at a later date to plant the 90 leftovers. A welcomed lunch was provided at Papawai Marae after which the recipients and their whānau departed. The Trust has received positive feedback regarding the planting at Tilsons Creek amongst which 'our kids were new to the tools on hand but they got great satisfaction taking part in the kaupapa and look forward to seeing the outcome of the restoration in years to come'.

A small group of nine met on an over-cast Saturday in late May and planted the remaining 90 plants. We are pleased to confirm that all plants are looking healthy and have survived the transplant.

The trustees wish to acknowledge Warren, Don and Peter for their organisation and commitment to the kaupapa and to our scholarship recipients and their whānau, ka mau te wehi!

Wairarapa Moana descendant and past Wairarapa Moana Trust Chair, Sonya Rimene has, after seven years at the Ministry of Women's Affairs, left to take up the position of General Manager, Māori Health Services, at Plunket NZ.

Wairarapa Moana Incorporation Committee of Management member, Mark Rutene, has successfully coached his Carterton team to win the Wairarapa-Bush Premier Division rugby competition for 2010. Carterton scored three unanswered tries to beat Masterton Red Star 15-0 in the grand final played at Memorial Park, Masterton, during July.

It was a thoroughly deserved championship crown for Carterton, whose only losses over the 2010 season came in their first two matches of qualifying round play.

It was a disastrous start for a side very early touted as the competition favourites after recruiting well through the off-season but they recovered brilliantly to win 17 of their next 18 matches and draw the other.

Kahungunu ki Wairarapa wishes to announce the appointments of PJ (Paul Jason) Devonshire as its new General Manager and Deborah Davidson as Office Manager. A pōwhiri to welcome PJ and Deborah was held at Te Rangimarie Marae, Masterton, on 13 August. Annette Pile, Office Administrator, has left her position to pursue studies in Massage Therapy.

Wairarapa Moana Trust trustee, Lynnette Te-Maari Whata, has been appointed the Restorative Justice Co-ordinator for Wairarapa, working two days a week from the Wairarapa Community Link offices in Masterton.

Wairarapa Moana descendants Warren Pomana and Ririwai Fox made the semi-finals for Homai Te Pakipaki – the Māori Television karaoke competition. Ka mau te wehi!

A 16-metre sperm whale was found washed up on a lonely stretch of beach on the Palliser Coastline. The whale was found dead at the tip of a rocky outcrop between Ngawi and Mangatoetoe late in July. When Department of Conservation (DoC) staff arrived to measure and assess the whale, the carcass had been set alight, making it impossible to properly inspect the dead mammal and robbed it of an opportunity to be properly buried. Also, the jawbone and teeth had been taken. Both acts of mutilation are breaches of environmental law.

Wairarapa Moana descendants, all cousins, who are in their first season of playing the shortened version of indoor football, have been selected in New Zealand Futsal teams. Kelsi Rutene has made the senior women's squad to contest the World Cup finals in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia in October, Nikki Rutene has been selected in the under-16 girls' team to play in Sydney in January 2011 and Te Aniwaniwa Mareikura Hurihanganui has made the under-14 girls' squad.

Te Hauora Runanga o Wairarapa welcomed their newest staff member, Rutu Namana, on Monday 9th August. Rutu has returned home to the Wairarapa after many years resident in Hawke's Bay. As a stepping stone in his career, Rutu graduated in 2000 at Te Wharetakeiura o Kahungunu (EIT) in Napier with Te Whakangungutanga ki ngā Tairo o Kupe (Bachelor of Arts Māori).
